Isn't it interesting to compare the reactions of the people who actually knew him to the embarrassingly sad and disgusting comments that were made here?

Sometime ago, I noticed a discrepancy on the ALDF website. I e–mailed to them and the CDC asking for clarification.

I got a quick reply from the CDC saying that the ALDF was "wrong" if their website maintained what it did...and so I thought I would have some fun with the ALDF and CDC, by bouncing back and forth and seeing if I could start something, more or less...

...instead, I received a response from Weld, saying that the site was indeed, incorrect as I had pointed out...and that it would be corrected in the near future (it was)...and thanking me for pointing it out. Quite the gentleman, and not at all what I had been led by others to expect.

Later, I came here...and asked a question of Kathleen...(need I say more)?

It is actually possible to disagree without being disagreeable.
