

Was connecticut red squad..something or other

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.med.diseases.lyme/2006-05/msg00595.html>

- From: "mark" <noadshere@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Wed, 17 May 2006 16:35:16 +0100
-

X-No-Archive: yes

Newsgroup Leader Kathleen ActionLyme wrote:

Again I will explain to you that SmithKline is a British company and that are falsely accusing people who are injured by their drugs of Munchausen's etc.

If I must, I will explain to you that you are obligated as a citizen to protect yourselves and others from BigBusiness dot gov, especially in the US and the UK.

It is disrespectful to future generations to be selfish and ignorant, and not paying attention to world affairs.

The INTENT of a democracy was for the people to be involved in which direction the country went. The UK and the US are in the toilet because people believed Bush and Blair's BullShit on Iraq, even though it was obvious BullShit.

And so all that you do, when you say that these are not your matters, is demonstrate how we failed our children.

SELFISH INCOMPETENCE.

You just do not understand it at all, do you.

I am not arguing against a general awareness issue, I am explaining to you that the uk.local.isle of wight [along with ALL the other uk.local groups] are forums for LOCAL issues. Not UK issues. Not US issues. Not World issues.

They are populated by people who wish to discuss LOCAL issues. There are hundreds of other NG forums in the UK for broader issues and to which you could 'should' address your concerns.

As I pointed out, there are clear guidelines and a charter for posting to uk.local.isle of wight and your postings are in clear contraventions of that charter.

You might not like them but why not just comply with the 'rules', so to speak.

As I further pointed out, all your approach does is to alienate people that otherwise may have been a supporter of your cause.

For you, it's a lose/lose situation.

Get the right forum... and you might gain some support; as you've seen from replies from many of the groups you have chosen to post to, most people are very hostile to your approach simply because it is not part of the specific interest of that group [note, I say specific, not general social conscience stuff].

You've already lost me on this and I have to tell you I'm a pretty left wing, socially aware activist, working for an NGO on womens issues worldwide. If you cannot encompass me you are going to have some serious problems with some others, get your cause absolutely no exposure, no support and be generally regarded as a troll and a nuisance.

One other thing, have you not learned how to 'cut' replies?

Your postings of 50kbs and more are unforgivable frankly.....

Mark

.