BTW didn't you get your ass kicked in the super

Uh, no...see, I just watch them on TV. It's a game...you see...

But the Super Bowl is just an over-hyped freakshow in my opinion. I didn't really care if they won or not, as I said here in this exchange with Chuckles the Clown on the 22nd of January...

then perhaps it is not always. The football talked is about as boring as the game.

Chuckles:

As far as I am concerned, the Superbowl is only good for bets and free beer and food from whatever poor soul is throwing a party.

"Well, you've got a point there.

I am happy now. Just to be there. Be nice if they win...but I don't really care, now".

not that funny...cost me 50

LOL.

Sounds pretty funny to me.

Damn. You bet against Peyton Manning? I love the Bears...but you should have asked me...there's no way I would have told anyone to bet on the Bears.

I was actually somewhat surprised at how they ripped New Orleans. You have to pressure Manning...the Bears did not...and they did not keep the ball away from him by running it...those were the two things they needed to do to win. Manning threw underneath the coverage all night. Made it look easy. All year long the Bears had trouble getting pressure on opposing QBs...and pass protection of their own. Grossman got blamed for mistakes he made when pass protection broke quickly and he tried too hard to make things happen.

Hell, it
