

Re: A cure for diabetes from 1806?

---

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.med.nutrition/2007-02/msg00080.html>

---

- From: "TC" <tunderbar@xxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: 3 Feb 2007 19:37:43 -0800
-

On Feb 3, 8:36 pm, Jim Chinnis <jchin...@xxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote:

NoOptio...@xxxxxxx wrote in part:

Real food is always more nutrient dense than fake over processed manufactured grain foods. Always.

No shit. That's why whole grains are finally, finally, starting to get their due.

Patrick

Fake, over-processed manufactured (feedlot) beef has similar shortcomings.
It's corn walking, with hormones, antibiotics, etc. added.

—
Jim Chinnis Warrenton, Virginia, USA jchin...@xxxxxxxxxxxxx

You're kidding, right?

Not all feedlots feed their cattle on corn, hormones, antibiotics etc.
That is one of the most sweeping, presumptuous, unrealistic statements
I've heard in a long time.

TC

.