you wouldn't and neither will you get any help if you try to tell your Doctor what to prescribe, or what you think you have.

Concentrate on communicating your symptoms, not your conclusions.
Believe it or not, your Doctor knows more about medicine than you do.

If you think your problem might be caused by something else, perhaps if you wrote down the symptoms you are experiencing it would help you to explain them to the Doctor more clearly. Give him a chance to help you, the odds of you figuring it out your self are less than winning the lottery.
