

Re: This one is hard to believe

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.med.transcription/2004-12/1378.html>

From: Maureen Galvin (maureen.galvin_at_comcastdotnet)

Date: 11/27/04

Date: Fri, 26 Nov 2004 18:12:25 -0600

When we received our AE card, I went shopping for new appliances and they would not let me make the purchase of $10,000. They said we needed to prove we were "credit worthy" before making such large purchases. We finally got them to agree after we provided our brokerage information and they were able to verify we could pay back the purchases.

Maureen

"Eliyahu Roof" <lrooff@hotmail.com> wrote in message
news:30pu3nF33nenkU1@uni-berlin.de...

>

> "Judity01" <judity01@aol.com> wrote in message

> news:20041126173148.12301.00001376@mb-m28.aol.com...

> | ((And I do

> | wonder why in the world AE granted her that much credit without a

> | good background check?))

> |

> | Eliyahu, do credit card companies actually do background checks?

> I seem to get

> | offers for "guaranteed" credit cards every month, and I haven't > had a job in

> | years.

> |

> There's quite a difference between a secured VISA with a limit of a > few hundred dollars and an American Express card with virtually > unlimited credit. In the latter case, not doing a good credit check > is inexcusable.

>

> Eliyahu

>

>