

Re: Dyson redux

---

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.med.transcription/2005-04/msg00088.html>

---

- From: Anne Vasquez <annevasquez@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Thu, 31 Mar 2005 13:44:31 GMT
-

I've been really curious about those systems. I can see how they would handle dust, etc., but do you still have to do some vacuuming, at least to pull up the pile in the carpet? Not having to vacuum sounds wonderful to me! (Although I definitely prefer vacuuming to mopping, especially after years of living in a house with no carpet!)

Anne

Susan Mitchell wrote:

Yes, I've seen purple vacs but we have a built in and I love it. No dust in house. Canister is downstairs in back garage. Great for allergies and no big vac to drag around. I don't think I could go back to dragging a big vac of any kind around again! Put it in when we built the house and love it. Nice a quiet (well not real quiet) but quieter than most. But I mostly love the fact that there is no canister in the house at all.

--

Sue -- Firefighter mom -- Still Rabid UW Dawg Fan!