Good for her, and good for you! Congratulations to you both! My dad used to say you can either stumble when you're young, or when you're old – at some time in your life things just aren't going to go well. Maybe he used to tell me that to make me feel better because I stumbled when I was young, too—but I do think he was right.

I remember sitting at my daughter's college graduation...I felt more accomplishment watching her walk across that stage than if I had walked across it myself, for some reason. Isn't parenting wonderful, especially when it gets to this part?

Good job Kristin!
