

Re: OT- Gas jumped .29¢ here, how about yours?

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.med.transcription/2005-09/msg00007.html>

- From: "Liz" <lizhug1@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Wed, 31 Aug 2005 17:19:11 -0400
-

If not the parents, then who should pay? I know our school district certainly was not prepared for such a huge hike in the gas prices. I applaud the PA school board that had the insight to suggest such a solution, and I was very happy to learn that it's legal. It wouldn't surprise me one bit to see this idea spread across the state, and probably across the country. We're being taxed to poverty already by the school districts and their unreasonable demands.

"Bambi C." <blcc324@xxxxxxx> wrote in message
news:2XkRe.64\$1b.10938@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

> No, they certainly shouldn't!!!

>

> Bambi C.

>

> "RaeMorrill" <RaeMorrill@xxxxxxx> wrote in message

> news:MVire.22339\$PM3.14650@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

>> Well, they certainly should!

>>

>> bsptss wrote:

>>> There was an article in the local paper yesterday that one of the school >>> districts outside of Philadelphia was thinking of charging parents

>>> $1/day to bus the kids to school to cover the rise in gas prices.

>>> Barbara

>>>

>

.

• Follow-Ups:

- ◆ Re: OT- Gas jumped .29¢ here, how about yours?

◇ From: Jeannie Wilson

- ◆ Re: OT- Gas jumped .29¢ here, how about yours?

◇ From: Bambi C.

- Prev by Date: Re: New word in operative report

- Next by Date: Re: Recommendations for donation to flood victims

Re: OT– Gas jumped .29¢ here, how about yours?

- Previous by thread: Re: New word in operative report
- Next by thread: Re: OT– Gas jumped .29¢ here, how about yours?
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread