LOL, why is anyone assuming I'm angry about anything. I'm angry about the cages...these banal arguments mean nothing to me. I don't remember ever being mad at Phyllis for saying they went out of business. I never disputed the fact considering I posed the letter they wrote (first mind you) about the whole situation and it stated they were winding up their operations. So when I posted it it meant nothing, but when Phyllis posted it that made it all correct? LOL I just think it's funny more than anything else. And not even necessarily ha ha funny, but funny nonetheless. Like I said, can everyone at least be in agreement that they want what's best for these kids?
