We're just thrilled at the prospect of rain here. Snow is such a rarity - you should've seen all the neighborhood kids last year when we had snow on the ground on Christmas morning! It was so cool. A lot of the kids had never seen snow before.

That being said, you have my deepest sympathy. I don't miss living where there's snow on the ground all winter.

(BTW, Maureen, my daughter says she's FREEZING TO DEATH in Chicago! I told her to just wait - she ain't seen nuthin' yet! <G>)

We're supposed to get 3 to 5 inches of snow tonight and high winds.
DD will be thrilled.

Winter...ugh.
