

Re: New Computer

---

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.med.transcription/2005-11/msg01787.html>

---

- From: "Eliyahu Roof" <lrooff1@xxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Thu, 24 Nov 2005 19:09:35 -0800
-

Hope you have lots of fun with it. "No operating system found" is usually a computer's way of telling you that the hard drive has gone on permanent vacation... The bad news is that it took all your files along with it and tossed them in a dumpster somewhere in cyberspace as it was leaving.

Eliyahu

"Barbara Carlson" <bbcarlson@xxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:yb-dnf3BjovbrhvenZ2dnUVZ\_sGdnZ2d@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

> Well I have a new toy. I ordered a custom-configured new Toshiba Lap > Top from Toshiba. I'm having fun getting it set up. Have been > looking for a while, but when 2 of my docs wanted me to come in and > work in their office when we had no electricity after Wilma, I went to > fire up my laptop--which is at least 6 or 7 years old--and got the "No > operating system is found." message. I had been looking for a good > excuse! My computer guru son said it wasn't worth spending money on.
>
> It was a pricey "toy" but it's just the way I wanted it, and I should > be able to get it set so I can vacation occasionally and take my work > with me. And, I got a big hard drive, to do my photography, and also > it is supposed to support VR, which my old laptop would not do! It > has a very elementary VR built in, but I haven't fooled with that, > when I have a good one (Dragon).
>
> I considered a lot of different computers, but no one had anything but > good to say about Toshiba. I ordered it direct from them--which was > cheaper than some of the others configured the way I wanted it! And > it was shipped (free shipping) from Shanghai, China OVERNIGHT!!!! I > find that absolutely amazing. --It did cross a dateline which I think > gave it an extra day--because it got to Anchorage Alaska BEFORE it > left Shanghai, but I still think that is amazing.
>
> Here's hoping it lasts a looooong time!
>
> Barb C.
>

- Follow-Ups:
  - ◆ Re: New Computer
    - ◇ From: Anne Vasquez
  - ◆ Re: New Computer
    - ◇ From: jmorngstar

- References:
  - ◆ New Computer
    - ◇ From: Barbara Carlson

- Prev by Date: Re: New Computer
- Next by Date: Re: What we take for granted
- Previous by thread: Re: New Computer
- Next by thread: Re: New Computer
- Index(es):
  - ◆ Date
  - ◆ Thread