Ok, I did some research and apparently Dragon is written to only work with Microsoft Office products.

Too bad really, since I'm using VR quite a bit these days.

For you guys that don't like Word because it's so complicated and cumbersome, you might want to check out OpenOffice 2.0. It's a very complete office freeware suite and compatible with Word format, although I would make sure it's compatible with your clients before doing a whole day's work on it.
