Liz, I suppose it isn't the politicians fault that drugs that cost me $10 a month BEFORE the Great Medicare Rx are now costing me $76 a month! No, don't blame the politicians. We haven't been able to figure out what my husband's will cost, because nobody can give us the figures that his drugs are costing each month--not the pharmacy, not our insurance company. We'd like to know when we are going to hit the "donut hole" so we can be prepared, and nobody can give us a clue.

That is Bush's great plan that the congress passed, but it's not their fault!

If you wanna follow Susan's rabbit trails, fine. Her original assertion blamed Bush for not being able to go on a trip, when her myriads of posts have told the REAL story well enough.

I think you would be VERY surprised at my real opinion of the current state of the union, but that's not the point and it's disingenuous to attempt to divert attention from the point just because some people don't want to look in the mirror first and fix what they can fix.
