I'm afraid of those kinds of links. Whose to say that if you click on it you're not setting up your computer to be invaded by viruses, cookies, spyware? Obviously, you have to click on it if you want to see whether or not it's legitimate, but without even so much as a description of what the web site entails, you won't ever catch me clicking on a link like that.

Especially not a url with words like: gopinathjm
