"I like the idea of a f buddy (correct terminology), but in reality cannot really make myself go that route.

In theory, I guess it's okay. But it's not for me, not with HIM anyway!

"I become to easily attached for that type of behavior. I think it is generational because these younger women seem to have friends with bennies and no attachment."

I know. That bothers me some and hammers at my self worth. I think I am worth more than that. I know I am.

"Currently I am without even a prospect and I have never had so much fun and been so happy with my life."

I feel about the same. I will say that I will appreciate this man for a long, long time for bringing me out of the terrible shell I was stuck in. Onward and upward, Janice!
