Yes, it is a DB9 adapter. When I plug in the adapter, it prompts as new hardware found on the system Then it searches and tells me it could not be installed properly. I've tried installing/uninstalling/installing and nothing changes. I need to either get this to work or I need to find another pedal ASAP. This is driving me bonkers.

Maureen, I don't think this will help, since I can't say why it happens, but I have a USB wireless adapter that does the exact same thing. Periodically it will just decide the thing is new hardware, search for installation files, say it can't find them, and shut me down. Sometimes taking the device out and putting it in again resets it, but even my guru hubby can't figure it out, so if someone here has the answer, I'd sure like to hear it!
