((I can relate! I do not envy you at all! You have my permission to bitch slap the "happy" weather guy! :) ))

The weather guy I'd like to slap silly is really a woman, Roberta Gonzalez. She not only goes on and on about the wonderful hot weather, she is disgustingly "perky" in the morning. To quote Ed Asner's comment on the MTM show, "I hate perky!"

Today, our area is on the second spare-the-air day where we are all encouraged to not drive our car to avoid further pollution. Of course, this doesn't count the cars racing for the next three days nearby at Sonoma in the Infineon NASCAR Race.

I figure if all those cars can go for a hundred laps or so at top speed, I should be able to drive 45 MPH the four miles to fill up my half dozen gallon water bottles today.

If you don't like Grissom being with Sara,
an alternative is my CSI story
