

Re: OT – Two Choices

Source: <http://sci.tech–archive.net/Archive/sci.med.transcription/2006–07/msg00850.html>

- From: bob@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx (Bob Rahe)
 - Date: 12 Jul 2006 14:30:19 GMT
-

In article <1152713525.686935.3900@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>, Judith <Judy01@xxxxxxx> wrote:

A friend sent me this in an email this morning, and I wanted to share it with all of you.

//

What would you do? You make the choice! Don't look for a punch line; There isn't one! Read it anyway. My question to all of you is: Would you have made the same choice?

....

Actually, story comes from a story by a Rabbi that appeared in a book of his. The article on snopes:

<http://www.snopes.com/glurge/chush.htm>

gives the cite and then argues that this is not a good thing, that it is "... bestow(ing) upon the disabled a pat on the head instead of granting them acceptance for who they are, ..."

Interesting article.

|Bob Rahe, MIEEE, bob@xxxxxxxx (RWR50) / ASCII ribbon campaign () |
|Delaware Technical & Community College / – against HTML email X |
Computer Center, Dover, Delaware / & vCards / \

Posted via a free Usenet account from <http://www.teranews.com>