That's why you're telling me what to do? And what's with this country bias? Are you a loser denial or something? You do sound like one. Wake up old woman and smell the coffee. If work is going outside of your country, its not because someone out there has decided to get you and your bread and butter – instead that happens because of certain economic dictums. Cry as much as you can. All right. These realities exist. Learn to live with them. Like you'll have to learn to live with a powerful SR in a few years.

Dude,

You are totally disrespectful, and waaaay out of line. You are biting the hand that fed you and your extended family for the past seven years. You obviously have a lot of personal and psychological issues.

If you are so worried about your future, then get the hell out of MT.

Now, prepare to be slammed some more.
