I personally think there is a BIG difference in competition for a beauty pageant for a child that age and gymnastics (this is healthy) or ice skating. I cannot even think of any similarity. Putting heavy makeup and making a small little girl into an object d'art in that manner to me is inviting trouble and makes me feel that the mother wanted to live through her child, but she started way too early.

There isn't much difference between a beauty pageant and gymnastics or ice skating except that the sexualization is dressed up in athletics.

There are rules in both gymnastics and figure skating against sexy outfits and over-sexy behavior, and points deductions result if they are violated.
