

Re: very sad... good vibes needed

Re: very sad... good vibes needed

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.med.transcription/2006-10/msg01910.html>

- From: "Maureen Galvin" <maureenDOTgalvinATcomcastDOTnet>
 - Date: Wed, 18 Oct 2006 22:19:13 -0500
-

That is so sad, but if she can she has to undersand that she did nothing wrong. Even with my third kid, I dragged her to probably six different physicians because breathign problems she was having as a baby. Finally the 6th one took me seriously and did good detailed testing. Turns out she has RSV and back in 1993 it was not as well-known as it is today.

She did what she was suppose to do. She took her baby to the doc and now she needs to be able to lay the blame or guilt at the feet of those responsible.

Poor things :(

Maureen

"Kathycarp" <kathycarp@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:vdudnSjB-sJEdavYnZ2dnUVZ_vednZ2d@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx

I know. I'm sure Mandy is torturing herself right now for not insisting on a chest x-ray 5 months ago. But, she did what she could, and her doctor failed to hear her. And perhaps the outcome would have been the same, but still... all those months of suffering.

--

Kathy

www.ambergriscaye.com/villadelsol

"Susan Mitchell" <medlawtrans@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:OaadnYExPfc-eqvYnZ2dnUVZ_oqdnZ2d@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx

Oh, my God, Kathy this is so sad. I'm so angry about her doctor. To tell this mother everything was okay is outrageous.

--

Sue -- Firefighter mom -- Still Rabid UW Dawg Fan!

(to reply send to medlawtrans@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx)

"Kathycarp" <kathycarp@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:hJudnQN2FLz_e6vYnZ2dnUVZ_rydnZ2d@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx

More bad news tonight. Both lungs are involved, and they

Re: very sad... good vibes needed

Re: very sad... good vibes needed

can't get her oxygen sat above 50. MRI of brain in the a.m., and they're not sure they can

even operate now.

--

Kathy

www.ambergriscaye.com/villadelsol

"RaeMorrill" <RaeMorrill@xxxxxxx> wrote in message

news:KIzZg.62762\$uH6.36452@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

Oh, this just makes you sick. I can see a new mother not knowing what is expected, but with these clinical findings and a mother saying
SOMETHING
IS WRONG.... Horrible. Babies do not have blue lips for now reason.

Kathycarp wrote:

No good news about Loran.
The surgery didn't happen this morning

because

her CAT scan showed more problems. She is having a brain and liver
MRI
today, and possible surgery tomorrow when they can gather the necessary
surgical team.

Her oxygen sats are in the 60s max, sometimes lower.
They transfused

her

and still not better. Her lungs just can't oxygenate enough blood. It

Re: very sad... good vibes needed

Re: very sad... good vibes needed

is

assumed that her oxygen sats have been like this for months, and there might be brain damage.

So sad that her mother has taken her to the pediatrician numerous
times
in the last six months, telling him there was something wrong. All they ever did was pat her on the head and say everything was fine. There were obvious signs to even those of us who saw her infrequently that there was something wrong (blue lips, blue fingers and toes, lack of muscle

tone, lack of growth). I mean, this baby that was born at the 90th percentile
in size, went to the 20th percentile in 6 months and her pediatrician didn't even question that????
He just kept saying she was "small

boned".

I'm just so sad for them I can hardly stand it.

Re: very sad... good vibes needed