Just out of curiosity:

Couldn't you have just left off the "that horrendous stuff" part? I mean, we get that you're sensitive to stuff, but your being sensitive to it doesn't make it horrendous.

This is one of those principles of logic and debate I had to learn in college the hard way, so I'm asking politely why you felt the need to make a value judgment on something simply based on the way you react to it.

I dunno...mebbe you don't even know you do it. I sure wasn't aware I did that before my nose got rubbed in it.
