That's exactly what the HP tech did when I told him I couldn't let a dead HD with patient info on it leave my house; he smashed it with a hammer before taking it. He told me that wasn't exactly company policy, though... <G>

Thanks guys. I'll check out the link. I think I'll call Dell to see if they have any recommendations too. The guy I spoke with from AOL the other day said "Hey, nobody said what type of damage had to be done prior to the return; there are always things like hammers and microwaves. " lol
