I've actually never watched the Sopranos, but I remembered reading that bit about the last episode in Celebrity Nooz and thought it might be something the regulars didn't know. :-) they were two girls who ran Tony and Christopher off the road.

We know not ever "talking head" or media gossip person gets every detail correct.

And I would not remember such minute details. I may be a fan, but I don't even call the characters by their right names sometimes, going back and forth between characters' names and actors' names.
