Should've clarified – if I were to recast the sentence in those examples, it would be as "increased abdominal girth, abdominal pain, and ascites."
No?

Why would you spend one second on this? He said what he meant and I didn't see a word in your OP about increased abdominal girth. He meant the guy's belly hurt around the middle. That's all. Why would you recast it?

I am bumfuzzled. What was the matter with the original thing? I'm going back to read and see if I missed something.
