

Re: OT: Football craziness

Source: <http://sci.tech--archive.net/Archive/sci.med.transcription/2007-10/msg00713.html>

- From: "Kathycarp" <kathycarp@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Sat, 27 Oct 2007 16:14:44 -0700
-

Heh. Hope Juliet stayed with the winning team today.
You know, I think they have shots for that rabid thing. :)

--

Kathy

www.ambergriscaye.com/villadelsol

"Sue" <medlawtrans@xxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message

news:7N6dnWlceO0YPL7anZ2dnUVZ_oesnZ2d@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx

Hey! You're in Washington, a left coaster no less! Shame on you. You need to be a DAWG! Just kiddin' ! We are Rabid you know! Just ask Kathy! :)

--

Sue -- Firefighter mom -- still rabid UW DAWG fan!

"juliet (fka wacoder)" <tboylinux@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message

news:6LKdnOm4bZiDAr7anZ2dnUVZ_h7inZ2d@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx

Kathycarp wrote:

So... Oregon is playing USC tomorrow, and it's a big game...

Josh just called me from downtown Eugene and the USC marching band is marching down the middle of 7th Street at 5:30 on Friday (one of the busiest streets in town, during rush hour) playing their fight song.

HA! I think it's funny and fun.... I just hope no one gets hurt.

Well, that's one game where I could root for either team...I used to live in LA and liked USC (or "SC") over UCLA, hands down. Now that I'm up here in the Portland area, I can root for the Ducks too, seeing as how they're close, and a family member was close to going there and joining the football team. (Stayed behind to be close to his dad, who has CHF).

WaCoder (juliet)

Re: OT: Football craziness