Glad you are all okay! We are getting some of that as well, pounded our coastline more than in land except Walla Walla got hit bad, that's pretty in land. We just had wind gusts and it's now very cold, windy and rain. Nothing like what you guys had though.

Did you make it through the storm okay? I did so enjoy the rain, the first real strong one I've seen up here in years. My little road flooded, but I had enough milk, water, and cat food to get me through until today, so I was all set.

We had power blips all day, and my ISP (which is in Santa Rosa) was having problems, too.

The weather was so nasty that I drove everybody to and from work (okay, well, Josiah picked the other two up from work) because I didn't want them out riding two-wheelers in it.

Other places had long power outages. I think mine was due to my bad electrical stuff.

The winds reminded me of the typhoon I weathered in Guam, and I was thankful that nothing flew through the glass.
