Well, when he grows up and gets married he'll have one. It's called a wife..

LMAO. That leads me to another funny conversation we had when he was around 3-4 -- he used to stare at this curly-haired blonde girl in a magazine -- just stare at it. I asked him why he liked her so much and he informed me that when he grows up he is going to marry his sister and THAT was going to be his girlfriend. Just as I explained to him that it is wrong to "own" other people in the other conversation, I explained to him that once married it is against the law to have a girlfriend. lol.
