Anyone else have tips on saving money or what you refuse to give up to save money? No, Barb, you haven't bored me at all.

My favorite web site on the subject is www.stretcher.com

I gave up so much so long ago when I quit my systems analyst job to stay home to raise children (which cut our income by about two-thirds) that I can't remember any more what I gave up and what is just a normal part of my life. I try to procrastinate on buying anything as long as I can, and some things I have been procrastinating on for years and am still doing fine without them.
