

Re: Loss of libido and REAL medicine

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.med/2004-06/1189.html>

From: Stormin Mormon (cayoung61-#spamblock-_at_hotmail.com*)

Date: 06/24/04

Date: Thu, 24 Jun 2004 11:02:44 -0400

I've heard alcohol increases the desire and removes the ability.

--

Christopher A. Young
Learn more about Jesus www.lds.org
www.mormons.com

"David Wright" <wright@clam.prodigy.net> wrote in message news:Hk6Cc.748$cT6.257@newssvr31.news.prodigy.com...

In article

<22986a60.0406221058.409cb4d3@posting.google.com> ,

Felix Oscar <tree01@inreach.com> wrote:

>Is it true that if a man loses sexual interest at age 35-40, there is >nothing you can do. Or are there real medical things you can do?

Are we talking about a loss of desire, or a loss of ability to perform? They're very different things.

-- David Wright :: alphabeta@prodigy.net

These are my opinions only, but they're almost always correct.

"If I have not seen as far as others, it is because giants

were standing on my shoulders." (Hal Abelson, MIT)