

Re: Nothing to do with marxism or anti-capitalism or anti-US bias

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.med/2004-08/3339.html>

From: Robert (RobertJ_at_hotmail.com)

Date: 08/28/04

Date: Fri, 27 Aug 2004 21:35:00 -0700

"GMCarter" <fiar@verizon.net> wrote in message news:u51ui0tn8qqbiish3dnlv35e21iqug36o4@4ax.com...
> On Thu, 26 Aug 2004 13:31:23 -0700, "Robert" <RobertJ@hotmail.com>
> wrote:
>
> snip
> >>
> >I agree it is not sustainable for government to provide every necessity in > >life and have it paid for by every individual through taxes. It won't > >happen. Take a course in Math and divide the money coming in and the money > >going out for services and then see how many people are working. Canada is > >forced to take a look at the math and they are all crying.
>
> Robert, I'm sorry I'm so rough on you but I keep hoping you'll kinda > get it? But I'm worried you have had a brain injury or something?
>
> I have LOTS of Canadian friends. NONE of them would trade what they > have for what we have (or don't) in the US.
>
> And yes, the US DOES have the resources and power to have an EXCELLENT > system of healthcare.

Try fixing the other stuff first like SS and the present medicare.
You don't get it. You think the government has an endless amount of money.
<http://money.cnn.com/2004/02/25/news/economy/greenspan/>

>
> But no--gotta spend a $1 billion a week on fucking up Iraq.
>
> George M. Carter
>
Exactly which is why you do not want to put health care in the same pot as sci.med: Re: Nothing to do with marxism or anti-capitalism or anti-US bias military spending which means it is not like Canada that does not spend 1 billion a week on Iraq. You can not compare Canada and the US.

YOU DO NOT GET IT.