

Re: Top-selling author says flawed vaccinations caused Gulf War disease

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.med/2004-08/3705.html>

From: Todd Gastaldo (tgastaldo_at_earthlink.net)

Date: 08/30/04

Date: Mon, 30 Aug 2004 20:22:19 GMT

John quoted Iain Harrison of The Sunday Post:

"Dr Ken McClure, now a best-selling author, investigated the claims of ill veterans while researching his latest novel, The Gulf Conspiracy...The ex-molecular geneticist with the Medical Research Council says his findings point towards flawed vaccinations as the cause of the controversial condition..."

<http://www.sundaypost.com/news4.htm>

Jeff P.Utz, MD (kidsdoc2000@hotmail.com) replied:

> I think the conspiracy has gone to McClure's head and he is just try to sell more books.
>
> Show us the peer-reviewed studies that show this.
>
> Otherwise, this is just conjecture.
>

Jeff P.Utz, MD forgets a key point....

Conjecture doesn't require peer-review to be correct.

Take for example my conjecture that American MDs lied when they used phony neurology to claim babies can't feel pain.

Jeff P.Utz, MD said that my pointing out the MD lie (noting that MDs were causing mass child abuse and calling for a Jewish exemption) wasn't what caused American MDs to: 1) suddenly oppose ALL religious exemptions to the child abuse statutes; 2) suddenly come out in favor of anonymity for PERPETRATORS of child abuse; 3) suddenly ignore their own Scientific Board and by voice vote instantly declare their "no medical indication" most frequent surgical behavior toward males "an effective public health measure."

sci.med: Re: Top-selling author says flawed vaccinations caused Gulf War disease

Via medical "scilence" like Jeff's, medical "science" is literally ripping and slicing babies – and far worse like...

MD–obstetricians are temporarily asphyxiating many babies in order to rob them of up to 50% of blood they would otherwise have transfused to themselves; that is, MDs are immediately amputating natural oxygenation/transfusion devices called placentas – with babies still blue!

See EMTs and cord clamping – everyone should be interested...
<http://health.groups.yahoo.com/group/chiro-list/message/2737>

ALSO: MD–obstetricians are routinely closing birth canals up to 30% then violently pushing (with oxytocin and cytotec) and gruesomely pulling (with hands, forceps, vacuums)...

Worse, they are KEEPING the birth canal closed with a DEEP BLUE baby's head sticking out the vagina!

See ACOG birth crime video evidence
<http://health.groups.yahoo.com/group/chiro-list/message/2300>

One last note about "peer review."

The AAP never published my Oct. 11, 1987 criticism that they published uncorrected the notion that babies can't feel pain for lack of myelin.

Most of the nervous system never becomes myelinated – and unmyelinated nerves are thought to transmit the most excruciating qualities of pain.

Jeff P.Utz, MD – you indicate that you are a pediatrician (kidsdoc2000@hotmail.com).

Would you look into this obvious pediatric peer review snafu?

Thanks,

Your friend,

Todd

Dr. Gastaldo
todd@chiromotion.com

PS Jeff, you did complete that pediatric residency, right?