Nope.

Really? What led you to that conclusion? I did not speak a word about psychs. Rather, I spoke about the particular steps that hospitals or other institutions to get a study approved as well as the steps that the NIH has put in place to protect study subjects. These procedures apply to all studies, whether they are working in psychology, psychiatry or any other medical area.

I never claimed that I was a "good doc." Rather, I was talking about safeguards that hospitals, medical schools, and the NIH have in place to protect people in studies.

Privacy. I wish to prevent assholes from being able to harass me.
