

Re: Bush Rx Psychoactive Use??

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.med/2004-10/1830.html>

---

From: Maleki (maleki_m__at_hotmail.com)

Date: 10/21/04

Date: Thu, 21 Oct 2004 11:45:25 -0500

On 21 Oct 2004 00:17:38 -0700, Monkey FourSevenZeroOne wrote:

> "Rick" <me@privacy.net> wrote in message news:<2toj9eF220tk6U1@uni-berlin.de>...
>> "Watson & Parisi" <niche@rcn.com> wrote in message news:c6-dnckysYNhk-rcRVn-2Q@rcn.net...
>>
>>> It's the Bush government that is guilty of simplistic wishful thinking, and >>> the whole world is paying the price for their arrogance and limited >>> horizons.
>>
>> Indeed. But for every clear-headed American like yourself, >> there are 100 fearful, gullible soccer-moms who believe >> whatever they're told by Fox News and Tom Brokaw, and >> are going to let themselves be terrorized into voting for four >> more years of war and fear mongering from Mr. Bush.
>>
>> << TERROR ALERT: ELEVATED >>
>>
>> The worst terrorist attack in U.S. history took place under >> Mr. Bush's watch. No one had held him responsible for his >> failure. No one has held him responsible for failing to find >> any of those who masterminded, planned or financed the >> attack. And now Bush is pawning himself off as some kind >> of security expert and war hero, for invading a country and >> slaughtering 13,000+ civilians who had absolutely nothing to >> do with the attack. He's on the verge of being re-elected!
>>
>> Historians are going to look back on this era with amazed >> wonder.
>>
>> Rick
>
> .... *The prescription drugs, administered by Col. Richard J.
> Tubb, the White House physician, can impair the President's > mental faculties and decrease both his physical capabilities > and his ability to respond to a crisis, administration aides > admit privately.*
>

(More nonsense deleted)

Bush for a president has unique characteristics, very valuable for USA (and elsewhere) at this time. He listens to good advice, rather than following myopic, selfish, rigid Washington formulas. He has an administration that are more or less the military type. This type of people have a bent for letting go of immediate considerations of money and safety and interests in favor of something good for the long-run. Don't turn them down. And do not mistake the military types with the loonies going about trying to impose some sort of ideology or self-interest. Even Hitler's militarymen were clean (as opposed to the SS).

The only thing about Bush's administration that calls for a need for scrutiny and care on the part of the observers is the possibility that Israel would hijack his efforts. USA's interests (long-term) must stay distinct from those of Israel in the Middle East, else the effort will fail.

Kerry is nothing BUT Israel as far as the Middle East is concerned. Bush and his administration, on the other hand, have minds of their own, willing and open to seek what needs to be done.

--

sad sar rA kolAh ast va sad kur rA asA.