

sci.med: Re: Survey: a third of people think flu vaccine causes flu

Re: Survey: a third of people think flu vaccine causes flu

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.med/2004-12/2531.html>

---

newsgroups01REMOVEME_at_intertainia.com

Date: 12/28/04

Date: Tue, 28 Dec 2004 11:48:04 -0500

On Tue, 28 Dec 2004 14:41:45 GMT, "Rich" <joshew@hawaii.rr.com> wrote:

>
> "john" <nospamoriidiotss@vaccine.com> wrote in message
> news:cqr7b4$vb$1@titan.btinternet.com...
>>
>>
>> <http://www.cidrap.umn.edu/cidrap/content/influenza/general/news/dec2004fluva>
>> x.html
>> CIDRAP
>> Survey: a third of people think flu vaccine causes flu
>>
>
> Yeah, and half of people think that UFO's are alien space ships. That don't > make it so.
>
> You cannot get influenza from a vaccine. Period.

Just working what I've read and heard at a local hospital:

Might want to clarify that, can't from the dead-virus injection. The nasal mist, is a live-virus, and it is suspected that people with weakened immune systems could catch it. Plus, you need to notify some hospitals if you received the nasal mist weakened virus vaccine, because of possibility you could infect others.

<http://www.chopurl.com?455>

>
> --Rich
>

hth, and Happy Holidays Everyone!

tom @ www.MedicalJobList.com

Re: Survey: a third of people think flu vaccine causes flu