Interesting narrative. I had a relative on either Synthroid or Levoxil, can't remember which. But as I remember, one was good and the other had kooky side-effects. Another thing is that when you (are told by your idiot bastard doctors to) increase your dosage, increase it SLOWLY. Don't double it or make a big jump in dosage on thyroid med.

Btw, I'm just an interested bystander. Let us know what and how this all works for you. I wonder what your bloodtype is? I'm guessing type O. God Bless!
