

Re: FOLLOW THE MONEY – Industry shill Elizabeth Whelan claims mercury fears unfounded

Source: <http://sci.tech–archive.net/Archive/sci.med/2004–12/2628.html>

From: HCN (hcn_at_nospam.com)

Date: 12/30/04

Date: Thu, 30 Dec 2004 19:18:11 GMT

"john" <nospamoridiotss@vaccine.com> wrote in message news:cqv13o$ql5$1@hercules.btinternet.com...
> FOLLOW THE MONEY – ...

http://www.hendontimes.co.uk/display.var.557517.0.fraudulent_doctor_jailed.php

Doctor charged for a bogus vaccine... and a kid ended up in the hospital with measles.

All because of scaremongering by someone who was paid by a lawyer to come up with a specific result:

<http://www.spiked–online.com/Articles/0000000CA40D.htm> ...

"Though Dr Wakefield received some £55,000 out of legal aid funding secured by Barr, he did not disclose this either to his colleagues at the Royal Free Hospital in London or to Dr Richard Horton, the editor of the Lancet. Dr Wakefield accepts that these allegations are true, but he denies that this funding caused any conflict of interest, a view described by Dr Horton as 'perverse'."