

Update, apology, and question about histoplasmosis

---

Source: <http://sci.tech--archive.net/Archive/sci.med/2005-06/msg00313.html>

---

- From: stryped@xxxxxxxxxxxx
  - Date: 16 Jun 2005 10:00:20 -0700
-

My doctor told me today "it time we stop thinking about lymphoma." I hereby appologize for bringing it up so much. I was just so scared and obsessed with the thought.

She does think there is a possibility I have the beginnings of histoplasmosis or an arthritic condition. When I first saw here a few months ago my histo test was 0. a few weeks later it was 1. A few weeks after that it was 1.5. She said it seemed to be creeping up even though it was still in the normal range which is 0-4. She took a blood sample today and said if this goes up, she will put me on sporonox.

Is it normal to go from a 0 to 1.5 in a few short weeks, even if 1.5 is normal?

.

---

- Prev by Date: ***Re: Nasal Glucose***
- Next by Date: ***"Brain-dead mother lives for unborn child"***
- Previous by thread: ***Trypanosoma cruzi and DHEA***
- Next by thread: ***"Brain-dead mother lives for unborn child"***
- Index(es):
  - ◆ ***Date***
  - ◆ ***Thread***