Hi, this is probably going to sound ridiculous but here goes. I have been diagnosed with major depression, IBS, interstitial cystitis. But I have all kinds of weird symptoms that are undiagnosed as of yet. Daily headaches which feel like tension, numbness & tingling in my hands, feet, & one side of my face. Electric shock like pains in my lower back which now moved to my hands. There's a spot near my left elbow which will trigger this in my hand sometimes too. I have pains in different spots in my stomach at different times. Pain in my left jaw. Basically I have pain from head to toe sometimes. (Not all at the same time) Trembling in my hands, sometimes just the left one. Sometimes my lips even tremble. Sometimes when I wake up in the morning it feels like my whole body is trembling. Certain sounds & voices sometimes cause these "episodes" where I feel like I'm going to black out, either me or things around me seem to be moving. Vertigo I guess you'd call it. & my head seems to tilt just slightly to one side, & everything sounds funny, kinda distant or something. This happened before several years ago every time I would here this certain sound & lasted for only a second. (That's as long as the sound lasted, if that matters) Now it was more like 10 seconds, which again was as long as the sound lasted. But I believe if it had lasted longer I would have passed out or something. It's hard to explain, such a weird feeling. I wonder if it might be related to a seizure of some sort only without losing consciousness. Also I've had short & long term memory problems for several years, but it's alot worse now. It's hard to concentrate or think of what I want to say most of the time. Also I'm extremely tired all the time. I know some of this could be caused by the depression, which is severe right now, but I need to know if there is something physical that could cause all this including depression. Oh sore throat alot too. From my experience with the dr.'s I've seen when you give them a list of symptoms like this it's like they don't believe you or something. Maybe I just haven't seen a good dr. I've only seen 3, & one was at the ER for chest pains, with a normal EKG & chest x-ray. I was told it was probably a pulled muscle, but I know if I pulled a muscle that badly I would have known about it. Any suggestions would be greatly appreciated. Thanks
