Dears

My friend got such a disease – progressive bulbar paralysis recently, I am not a doctor, what I know is only the name of the disease – progressive bulbar paralysis, it seems serious. Now her tongue is becoming rigid, hard to swallow foods and water. The doctor here suggested some traditional Chinese medicine and therapies.

But I am afraid it takes effect much slower, does anybody here know any medicine or therapy method I can get for that ?

Hope your help !!

This first study speaks to the finding of ataxia , deafness in this problem.

This closely mimics the effects of increased iron levels .. superficial siderosis .. neurodegenerative disease of iron dishomeostasis or neurodegenerative disease with brain iron accumulation.

The iron would seem to be the problem. They have shown the application of vegetable oil to the skin allows the ingredients in the oil to enter the body.

In soil remediation for heavy metals .. the substances / sugars / phosphates which pass the skin / enter into the body are used for removal / sequestration of metals .. presently for lead in old gasoline sites and further it seems to .. uranium.

Soooo .. you might consider oiling up / massaging your friend every six hours for at least a week .. as per evidence based medicine ..
