Just wondering if anyone who gets sever migraines have had any luck with Topamax.

Right now I am on a short stint of taking Prednisone to try and get me out of 'migraine mode'.

So many trials and errors. Have had migraines since I was 10 yrs old...now I'm in my late 40's and still cursed with them.

Migraines with aura certainly can make a person wonder what in heck is going on with them. Burnt toast, or other odd smells, vision problems and sometimes you could draw a line down half my body, one side being pin and needles.

Holes in vision and just miserable.

Isn't life with migraines interesting? Not!!

Could live without knowing what a migraine is, but then there is always something worse!

Just wondering about Topamax and results...any hints on how to get past the 'in the fog' when starting Topamax??

Just me
