

Re: cloudy vision

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.med/2006-11/msg00074.html>

- From: David Rind <drind@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Thu, 09 Nov 2006 22:15:45 -0500
-

Chelki wrote:

Hi.

I don't know how to describe it but sometimes I would be standing or sitting and all of a sudden I get a clouded vision. The first time it happened I thought it was a head rush. But this lasted for approx. 2 minutes. I did not feel dizzy my vision was just clouded. I tried rubbing my eyes but this did not work. I never had this happen to me before, besides two times previously. The first time it happened I was cleaning the bathroom with some cleaners and I stood up and suddenly got clouded vision. Therefore i assumed it was a headrush or the fumes from the cleaner were contributing to this. But it lasted for a least 2 minutes. i lay down until it cleared up. The second time it happened i was just sitting down. And today I was just sitting in front of the computer and it happened again. What does this mean? What should I do? Is this normal?

You should let your doctor know about this right away.

--
David Rind
drind@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx