

Re: Future of Tanks

- >> If they've got ready access to RPGs and IEDs (ranging from simple
- >> remote–detonated artillery shells, to explosively–formed projectiles
- >> triggered by passive infrared) then you want something heavier and more
- >> survivable.
- >
- > Since IEDs can be home made and the whole world has seen their
- > effectiveness on tv we can assume that they will be normal insurgency
- > weapons from now on.
- >
- > There may be logistical advantages in using the same components, such as
- > engines, in trucks and infantry support vehicles. Hopefully armoured
- > wheeled vehicles will be a lot cheaper than tanks.
- >
- > Andrew Swallow

- Follow–Ups:

- ◆ Re: Future of Tanks
◇ From: Andrew Swallow

- References:

- ◆ Re: Future of Tanks
◇ From: Andrew Swallow
- ◆ Re: Future of Tanks
◇ From: Paul J. Adam
- ◆ Re: Future of Tanks
◇ From: Andrew Swallow

- Prev by Date: Re: XM109 + G11 = ???
- Next by Date: Re: Next Generation Battle Rifle
- Previous by thread: Re: Future of Tanks
- Next by thread: Re: Future of Tanks
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread