

Re: Everything Is Moving

Source: <http://sci.tech--archive.net/Archive/sci.physics.particle/2005-05/msg00028.html>

- From: "Ranando King" <rk@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Mon, 23 May 2005 10:44:48 -0500
-

"drnolittle" <bigbadbarry@xxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
<news:1116690312.884550.239590@xx>

- > See if I'm thinking on the right track here
- >
- > Everything in the universe is moving always.
- >
- > Some so small, we cannot measure, or see. Like a rock.
- > but at a certain zoom, movement can be seen.
- >
- > Question: Is everything, absolutely everything round or constructed of
- > round things.
- >
- > Particles appear to be round, atoms, and so forth.
- >
- > Me?, Im made of up a bunch of charged spheres right?
- >
- > Man I hope I have not showed all my ignorance at one time.
- >

If you can swallow Quantum Physics, then no it's not all charged spheres. Everything down to the particles looks spherical, but once you get the particles themselves, things begin to look hazy. So for now, until we find more accurate detection methods, it's better and more accurate to say that at the bottom, it's all charged clouds. Clouds of what? No human knows.

R.

-
- Follow-Ups:
 - ◆ Re: Everything Is Moving
◇ From: Jeff
 - References:
 - ◆ Everything Is Moving
◇ From: drnolittle

Re: Everything Is Moving

- Prev by Date: Everything Is Moving
- Next by Date: Re: Everything Is Moving
- Previous by thread: Everything Is Moving
- Next by thread: Re: Everything Is Moving
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread