Not just by existing in one man's mind, it isn't. It must be spread.

Make up your mind, George. You said earlier:

>> [Hammond]
>> I'm in a big hurry. The older I get the more outraged
>> I get at the human condition... starving children, >> brutalized women, child labor, for chrissakes... here I >> sit with the first major advance on the problem in 2,000 >> years and NOBODY... FCUKIN NOBODY will move a fcukin >> finger to help me.

And when anyone offers advice, you jump up on your high horse. Fine, enjoy the rarefied air up there. Ignore any and all advice. Watch the horrors you describe continue. Don't concern yourself with the gritty details of waking six billion people to the true causes of their plight. Keep crying from the low-profile mountaintop of newsgroups, instead of doing the hard work of reversing all that corruption.
