

Re: Where God is: No Multiverse

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.physics.relativity/2004-08/4297.html>

From: Mitchell (macromitch_at_internetCDS.com)

Date: 08/20/04

Date: 19 Aug 2004 19:15:40 -0700

funk420@yahoo.com (luke) wrote in message
news:<e1b04639.0408191115.3f5ca3a2@posting.google.com>...
> news:<9c3da975.0408181336.31ce11bb@posting.google.com>...
>> funk420@yahoo.com (luke) wrote in message
news:<e1b04639.0408170827.5912e025@posting.google.com>...
>>> macromitch@internetCDS.com (Mitchell) wrote in message news:<9c3da975.0408151926.ad387c1@posting.google.com>...
>>>> snip-snip-snip
>>>> God is in the universe and the universe is in God.
>>>> All science has to do is to realize that we are it.
>>>>>
>>>>> We are it. Yes. Science that is.
>>>>> God is a fact.
>>>>> He is the meaning not a multiverse.
>>>>> Where can you find his meaning?
>>>>> The answer is inside us.
>>>>> The meaning we project out onto a multiverse properly belongs >>>>> inside us.
>>>>>
>>>>
>>>> I agree that much comes from inside us.
>>>>
>>>>>> If there is nothing outside then we are left to face God >>>>>> with no way around it.
>>>>>>
>>>>>> Which one?
>>>>>>
>>>>>> God is One
>>>>>> So is the universe Luke.
>>>>>>
>>>>>> There are many who are one.
>> Just as zero and one give birth to the infinite complexity of mathematics.
>>
>
> Yes. And more than just mathematics if Mr. Turing is to be believed.
> Could our very thoughts be encoded as zeros and ones? It would > certainly take an awful lot of them..
>

- > > > Take a look at the night sky and tell me how many gods you see.
- > > I see One behind them all.
- > >
- >
- > Yes. That is the milky way galaxy. That one is less well understood.
- > What did it grow from? What keeps it together? Or perhaps you are
- > seeing farther, to Andromeda and other distant island universes?
- >
- > > > Take a look at a crowd of people and tell me how many universes you see.
- > > I see One. That is the point Luke.
- > > Don't you get it?
- >
- > OK, I see only my own. You're right. But if solipsism is really the
- > answer, why don't more people convert?
- >
- > No, all kidding aside, I do see one. Here we are, whether you like
- > it or not. Universe or multiverse, call it what you will.

You are using multiverse to describe our one universe?

Is that what your doing?

I am saying that there really is nothing but God outside the universe and that it is only by scientific imagination that He can be replaced by a multiverse. The real meaning doesn't belong in an outside multiverse. Instead if science were open to it it could see that WE ARE IT.

Mitch Raemsch — Light Falls —