[Hammond]

Hey... I don't have any problems, and don't take any "medications". And furthermore, just because I have a lot of Internet kooks stalking me around and posting harrassment to my discussion topics doesn't mean I'm crazy..... it means THEY'RE CRAZY.... and as you know almost ALL high profile and celebrated scientists who make tremendous scientific discoveries have a huge camp following of such hecklers..... christ... look at sci.physics.relativity.... half the posters there are academic mental cases trying to prove Einstein's theory is wrong!

And furthermore... just because I'm not afraid of such fury... doesn't mean that you wouldn't shit your pants if it ever happened to you... and we don't need you coming on here telling us how scared you are about it.... we already know.

What bothers me is that if you are "moderator" of talk.origins I would expect that you have some academic credentials of some kind... mind telling us what they are?.... because your forlorn posts seems to reflect a very low level of intelligence, and certainly a low level of education. Let me ask you... if you wrote to Chris Isham, Bill Dembski, Steve Unwin (all intentionally famous PhD's in physics/math) do you think they would feel obliged to respond to you, as THEY HAVE to me?..... I don't think so... you don't sound like you have enough education to keep anyone from falling asleep.

And furthermore, I'm wondering what the MODERATOR of a news group is doing posting OFF TOPIC, HECKLING posts to my discussion threads:

Do you have a history of mental illness?
Are you currently seeing a psychiatrist?
Are you unemployed?
Do you have a history of maladjustment?

Anyway... whatever your problem is.... I find it VERY PECULIAR for the moderator of a Usenet

Newsgroup to be posting AD HOMINEM, OFF TOPIC, PERSONAL ATTACKS
on the discussion threads of one of the posters.

Don't you have better things to do?

PS: If you are concerned about the occasional 4-letter word that creeps into my posts... o.k.... I'll try to keep it down... but please realize the insults coming from the hecklers are pretty foul to begin with...
perhaps I shouldn't be answering them in their own genre..
...but sometimes it saves a lot of bandwidth.

If this is aggravating your sense of propriety, do let me know.
