

Re: GOD=G_uv PROVES CATHOLICISM

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.physics.relativity/2005-01/4889.html>

From: George Hammond (nospam1_at_nospam.net)

Date: 01/24/05

Date: Mon, 24 Jan 2005 18:36:34 GMT

"Casey B" <nospam@any.stage> wrote in message news:1106561499.bf0619aa0398581d213f1668fe4f6cc7@teranews...

> George Hammond wrote:

>

> >> >> > Anyway... the Catholic Church is the ORIGINAL Christian

> >> >> > Church, founded by Peter himself... and the Protestant Churches

are > >> >> > all breakaway denominations.... a movement spearheaded by Luther

in > >> >> > Germany apparently... which is enough to make anyone suspicious.

>

> "Apparently"?

>

> And yes, it's enough to make anyone suspicious, isn't it.... those > rascally Germans! Who could ever side with the Protestants?

>

>

<http://www.talkaboutreligion.com/group/alt.religion.broadcast/messages/7013.html>

>

> George, how can you seriously complain in 2001 that nobody is > qualified to evaluate your theory because they don't have a grounding

> in Physics, Psychometry and Divinity, and then "discover" Mary Baker

> Eddy – not the most obscure theological figure in the world – in April > 2004?

[Hammond]

Well, the problem with Mary Baker Eddy is that she died before Einstein discovered the theory of General Relativity in 1915, and before Psychometry was even discovered (i.e. it was not really discovered until the invention of the high speed computer in the 1960–1990's).

>

> Just interested, and keep a-fightin',

> Casey B

[Hammond]

Having discovered a proven scientific fact... there is no way I can give up!

>
>
> By the way:
> >> >> > One of these days I'm going to see the > >> >> > Vatican... St. Peter's itself... and the Bernini columns... and > >> >> > Calvary Hill. At least there, I'll finally be in good and > >> >> > courageous company, not hanging around with a bunch of > >> >> > impudent jerks like you.
>
> "Hanging around"... perhaps not the best choice of words...
>

[Hammond]

gulp.... you got that one right.

> >> > [Hammond]
> >> > ... Pope Paul has said:
> >> >
> >> > "... the Catholic Church is not opposed to the search for > >> > a scientific proof of God... although we do not know what > >> > it might consist of or who might discover such a thing."
> >> > (Pope Paul, Vatican encyclical ca. 1985)
>
> From a Papal Catachesis on the subject of the existence of God,
> Pope John Paul II, 10 July 1985:
>
> "To desire a scientific proof of God would be equivalent to lowering > God to the level of beings of our world, and we would therefore be > mistaken methodologically in regard to what God is. Science must > recognize its limits and its inability to reach the existence of God:
> it can neither affirm nor deny his existence."

[Hammond]

Well... if the Pope actually said that... he is UTTERLY WRONG.

However, that statement seems to be in conflict with his previous statement. However, having quoted the previous statement from memory... I have been unable to relocate the published citation ever since... maybe someone else said it?

Certainly the Pope is correct that "scientifically explaining God" isn't going to make mankind "physically any closer to God", however, a scientific proof will, in the long haul, certainly help to move mankind closer to God.

At any rate... his divine excellency is INCORRECT in his (alleged) opinion that Science can "neither affirm nor deny God's existence". In fact:

Science has now clearly discovered an axiomatic physics explanation and experimentally confirmed proof of the existence of the God of the Bible.

So... if he did actually make the latter statement... that statement is utterly incorrect!

While I certainly do not dispute the fact that the Pope is closer to God than I am.... it is also known that he is not a scientific expert. Frankly, I feel that I have some very encouraging news for his divine excellency the Pope. I only pray to God that I get the chance to tell him about it.

> >There's no "having an intelligent conversation"
> >about this thing...

[Hammond]

I daresay I could have an "intelligent conversation" with the Pontifical Academy of Sciences, given the chance.

=====

SCIENTIFIC PROOF OF GOD WEBSITE

http://geocities.com/scientific_proof_of_god

mirror site:

<http://proof-of-god.freewebsitehosting.com>

=====

please ask you news server to add:

alt.sci.relativistic-proof-of-god.moderated

=====