Unfortunately a number of trolls on this group have demonstrated great resilience to such tactics.

Did a quick search on your posts. Could not find any that actually discusses physics. Like to start now? However I doubt it because a quick internet search shows you are probably not a genuine poster – you have a long history of stirring up trouble on groups dating back to at least 1998 – <http://groups.google.com/group/rec.arts.books.tolkien/msg/2235c7bc00c91dfb> What Michael Martinez said about you then applies equally well to physics newsgroups as it does to Tolkien: 'When you stop trying to stir up trouble in the Tolkien groups, we'll all have a nicer Usenet experience.'

The phrase kettle calling the pot black comes readily to mind.
